DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. The inventions found in claim 21 and 1-20 are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process. Specifically, the product does not have to a multilayer transfer or laminating film applied to a surface of a mechanically load-bearing layer, rather the mechanically load-bearing layer can be applied to the surface of the multilayer transfer or laminating film.

NOTE: After electing either claims 1-20 [apparatus] OR claim 21, applicant must proceed to the election of species below and elect a species and subspecies.

2. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

Species I: (Figure 2) Discloses two covering layers serving as the top layers of the multilayer film

Sub-species I: (Figure 4) Discloses one form of a transfer film

Sub-species II: (Figure 5) Discloses another transfer film in which there is no replication layer or two thin film layer successions

Art Unit: 3618

Species II: (Figure 3) Discloses one covering layer, which is joined to the ski base body (i.e. the lower layer of the multilayer film)

Sub-species II: (Figure 5) Discloses another transfer film in which there is no replication layer or two thin film layer successions

The species are independent or distinct because The multilayer films are structurally different, the placement and use of the covering layer varies, one would have different results from placing the covering in different positions, and with regards to the subspecies there is a drastic difference because of the lack of use of some of the layers in the one transfer film, which again leads to large variations in results. A search of these species and sub-species would be burdensome to the examiner because in a text database the search would greatly vary from one design to the next.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.

MPEP § 809.02(a).

NOTE: Applicant must first elect either Species I OR Species II. Then after elect one of the species, applicant must then further elect either Sub-Species I OR Sub-Species II.
